Sam opened with a story about a schoolyard bully and the idea that some fights pick you. Can you share a time in your life where you were in conflict, was it necessary? If you could do it over what would you do?

Paul says "gods made with hands are not gods." What do people today look to for security or meaning that can't really deliver?

The crowd chants "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" for two hours. What cultural "Artemis" do you feel most pulled toward?

The town clerk says Paul and his friends are "neither sacrilegious nor blasphemers." What's the difference between a faith that's needlessly offensive and one that's faithfully clear?

Paul wanted to enter the theater, but the disciples stopped him. How do you tell the difference between courage and provocation?

Are you more tempted to pick a fight or avoid one? Why is that good and why is it bad?

How does remembering that Jesus has already fought for you change how you handle the conflicts in your life?
