Passages in Today's Sermon

Isaiah 55:11, John 5:39, 1 Thessalonians 2:8, 4:9

When have you been part of a group or community that was really open to new ideas – what made it feel that way?

When have you seen God use a season of resistance or struggle to produce lasting faith in your own life?

What similarities do you notice between Paul's ministry in Thessalonica and Berea?

How does this story challenge our assumptions about what “success” in ministry looks like?

How can intellectual interest in Scripture fall short of real discipleship?

What might this teach us about the difference between being curious about truth and being changed by it?

Why do you think resistance in Thessalonica still produced a strong and enduring church?

Can pushback ever be part of how God's Word takes root in a person or a community?
